

#4 Today's Family Gives Me Stability

Success Was Having Those Closest to Me Love and Respect Me the Most.

That decision put my wife, Margaret, and my children, Elizabeth and Joel, right in the middle of my definition of success. Success would be impossible if I achieved outwardly but failed to take my family with me on the journey. The applause of others would never replace the appreciation of my family. Respect from others meant little if I did not have the respect of my loved ones. I would make caring for and communicating with my family one of my life's priorities.

Our Family Values

1. _____ : Our faith came first in our lives. If we neglected or compromised that, nothing else would be of value.
2. _____ : Reaching our personal potential and helping our children do the same is one of our highest values. When we come to the end of our lives, we want to look back knowing we lived life to the fullest.
3. _____ : The greatest bonds between people come as the result of their experiences together, both good and bad. We create as many positive experiences as we can, and we weather the negative ones together.
4. _____ : Your belief determines how you will live life and it also impacts the outcome of everything you do.
5. _____ : People should try to leave the world a better place than they found it. We want to add value not only to the people in our family, but also to every other life we touch.

#4 Today's Family Gives Me Stability...continued

_____ :

Balancing Work and Family

1. Put your family on your calendar _____ .
2. _____ ways to spend time together.
3. Express _____ for each other.
4. Be honest and resolve _____ as quickly as possible.